We don't need big change, we just need small initiation...

Birendra Lama, a 22 years old man is a residence of Roshi Rural Municipality-3, Kavrepalanchok works in his own village with his family in their field. This young man was unknown about safe water and effects of drinking unsafe water.

During our Water Safety Plan training, he was found very much curious regarding hazards that may occur by drinking contaminated water and because of this orientation he showed learning attitude while demonstrating water quality test by using ENPHO water quality test kit.

Birendra Lama who used to unknowingly neglect about safe drinking water today is the one who aware villagers regarding health and hygiene. He use ENPHO water quality test kit as per the requirement in his scheme and he is determined to make water in his village safe and people in his village healthy.

In most of the rural areas, we see people ignoring health and hygiene related issues but sometimes we should realize that they are doing it unknowingly. Birendra Lama is just one of the representative. Small initiation can bring huge change in creating healthy society and a country.
